ANNUAL REPORT 2009

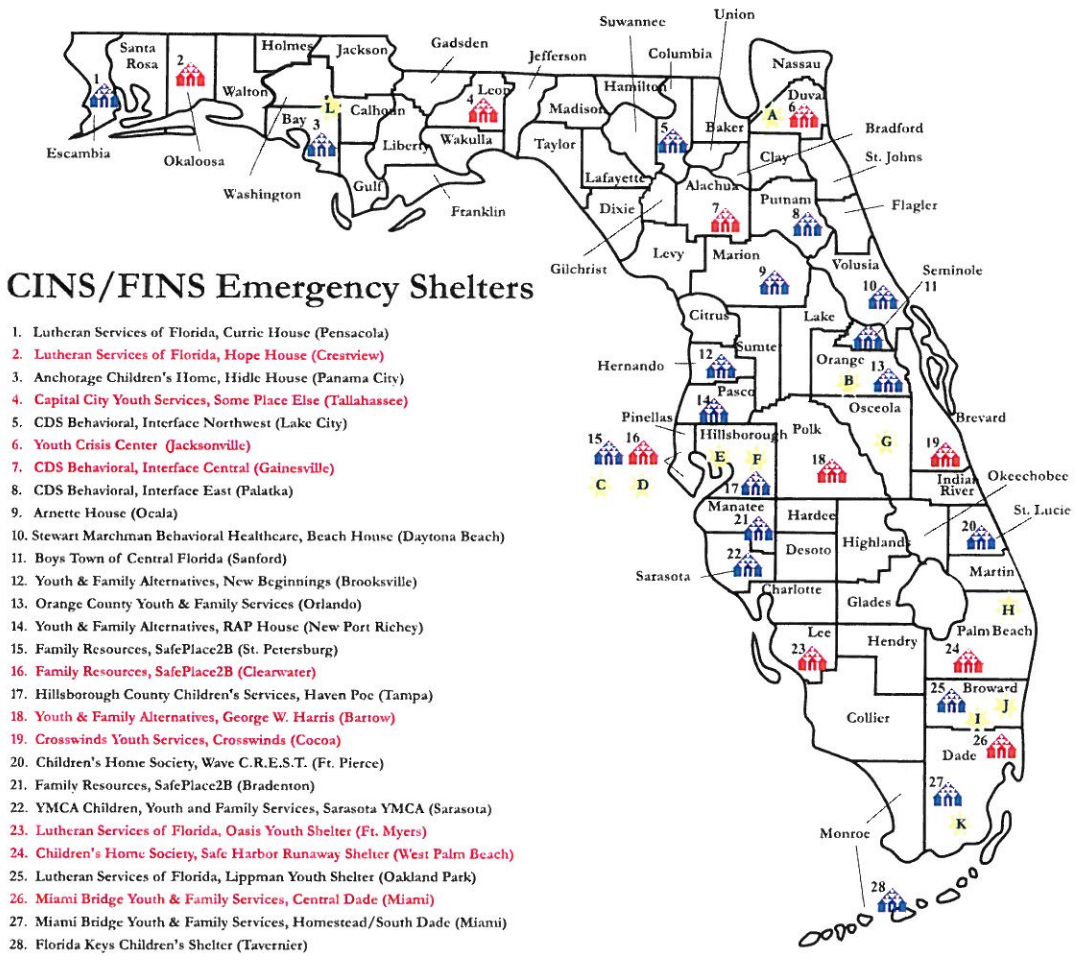

Nationally Recognized Program

The Florida Network of Youth and Family Services and the Florida CINS/FINS program was nationally recognized by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention as a best practice in the deinstitutionalization of status offenders. We were also nationally recognized by the American Bar Association and The Vera Institute of Justice in New York City as an exemplar program in its study paper titled “Model for Change – System Reform in Juvenile Justice”.

The Florida Network of Youth and Family Services is a non-profit statewide association of agencies which serve runaway, truant, ungovernable and other troubled youth and their families. This population is defined by the statute as Children and Families in Need of Services or CINS/FINS. The services provided by the Network's member agencies are designed to prevent juvenile delinquency and child abuse through the strengthening of youth and families. For over thirty years, the Florida Network member agencies have been providing services to Florida's youth and families with compelling success. With a statewide delivery system of core services, a statutorily defined target population and commitment to preserving the creativity and flexibility that comes from private community-based community driven agencies, the Florida Network and its member agencies have served nearly one million youth and families. The Florida Department of Juvenile Justice funds the Florida Network's crisis centers to provide help for troubled youth and their families.
